About Lars Meyer

Lars acts for corporate clients and financial investors on M&A, complex reorganisations and growth investments, and is particularly active in the tech, media and life sciences sectors. He currently co-heads Freshfields' global tech, media and telecoms group and is a relationship partner for a number of the firm's major pharma, healthcare and tech clients.

Lars has a global practice spanning Germany, Continental Europe, the US, the UK, many parts of Asia and the Middle East, and works closely in particular with the firm's recently opened Silicon Valley Office.

He is currently based in Frankfurt and Berlin, having previously worked in Freshfields' Singapore and London offices and in-house at a multinational consumer goods corporation in Mumbai.
